zenhire announces strategic partnership with CollaborateMD to offer integrated staffing solutions

Partnership Enables zenhire Recruiters to Service Severe Healthcare Industry Staffing Shortages and Further Enriches CollaborateMD's Solution Set

AMHERST, NY – FEBRUARY 18, 2008 -- Zenhire, Inc., the premier online networked HR community and provider of advanced, next-generation Web 2.0 collaboration and search tools, announced today that it will partner with CollaborateMD, a leading provider of Internet-based medical billing and practice management software for physician offices and medical billing services. The partnership will allow CollaborateMD's customers access to zenhire's targeted talent acquisition and staffing functions and the zenhire private network of elite staffing professionals who specialize in identifying, assessing and placing physicians, nurses, medical support/administration and allied health professionals.

As part of the agreement, CollaborateMD's customer base of 500+ accounts, incorporating over 2,800 physicians, will have access to zenhire's community of medical employment specialists as well as other tools, resources, content and features that allow users to quickly, efficiently and affordably find the talent they need. The integration, scheduled to be completed by March 1, will result in a free, easy-to-use interface that will allow users to broadcast their staffing requirements to the zenhire network.

"We think that the partnership between CollaborateMD and zenhire represents the way best-of-breed solutions for small and mid-sized business will be created from now on," said Bob Fritzinger, president of zenhire, Inc. "The partnership is really two communities of expertise connecting together on mission-critical business activities, each company innovating and contributing based on its knowledge and core competencies. We're very excited to pioneer this effort with CollaborateMD."

"Zenhire and its network of medical staffing specialists will be an enormous help to our clients as their businesses grow and the demand for specialized medical talent increases. The CollaborateMD - zenhire partnership will allow our clients to rely on the network for all their staffing needs and allow them to focus their time and efforts on what they do best - run their businesses successfully," said Douglas Kegler, president and founder, CollaborateMD. "We are excited to partner with zenhire to offer our clients the power and simplicity of the industry's most advanced Web 2.0 talent acquisition tools. The partnership increases the value of our solution, finding and hiring the right talent in the face of industry-wide staffing shortages."
